Last call for "Good Guy" nominations

The last chance to submit nominations for this year's "Good Guy" Award is fast-approaching. All entries, to be eligible, must be postmarked no later than Friday, April 10, 1992. The award is presented annually to an outstanding (non-political) resident of Wilmington, male or female, who gives of themselves to make our community a better place in which to live. The award will be presented at the 26th annual Good Guy Banquet, Saturday, May 15, at the Sons of Italy Hall in Wilmington.

If you know of anyone whom you feel should be deserving of this award, please help the Committee by submitting your nomination, with the reasons you feel this individual should be so rewarded, to the "Good Guy" Committee, P.O. Box 387, Wilmington, MA.

The 1991 recipient, Irene Sharp Brennan, chairs the committee this year.

Jill Biggins had no idea what was in store for her when she went to school on Friday. During the demonstration of animals from the Southwick Animal Farm, she was chosen to be the lucky volunteer to have a python around her neck. Holding the snake for her is Alexandra Burpee. Jill is a fifth-grader at the Shawsheen School.

Medco pharmacy brings 400 jobs to Wilmington

Medco Containment Services, Inc., the nation's leading provider of managed prescription drug benefit programs, today announced that it will locate its newest mail service pharmacy in the Wilmington Technology Park, off Ballardvale Street.

The pharmacy, scheduled to be fully operational this summer, will provide mail service prescriptions to Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Massachusetts members, state employees and retirees through the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Group Insurance Commission and other Medco clients in New England.

"The siting of this pharmacy in Massachusetts is a boost to the Commonwealth's economy. The pharmacy is expected to employ between 350 and 400 individuals, in addition to those jobs created during the renovation process in the months preceding the opening," said Gloria Larson, Massachusetts Secretary of Consumer Affairs.

"The pharmacy is projected to have a payroll of $13 million," continued Larson. "Furthermore, at-home delivery is an important benefit of Medco policy holders, many of whom have mobility problems," concluded Larson.

Medco praised the efforts of the Weld Administration for making this pharmacy a reality. "We are delighted at the efforts undertaken by Secretary Larson and the Administration to help achieve our goal. These actions demonstrate the Administration's continued commitment to bringing jobs to Massachusetts," said Terry S. Latanich, senior vice president for Government Affairs of Medco.

Excellent postal capabilities, and talented job pool in the region, contributed to the decision to locate in Wilmington.

State Rep. Robert Krekorian (R-Reading) was elated at Medco's final decision. "Several months ago, I was appraised that Medco was interested in locating a facility north of Boston," said Rep. Krekorian. "We immediately went to work on the telephone, lobbying members of the Weld Administration and Medco officials. I made an aggressive sales pitch to the effect that the 21st Middlesex District (Reading, North Reading and Precinct 6 of Wilmington) was a very favorable location to do business. I am thrilled to have been able to help bring much needed jobs and revenue to Wilmington," concluded Rep. Krekorian.

Medco said it will be employing individuals with a variety of different skills to operate its facility. "In addition to hiring licensed pharmacists, we will fill positions in a number of areas, including pharmacy technicians, data entry, customer service, inventory control and administration," noted Latanich.

Medco's decision to locate a pharmacy in Massachusetts results from its contract with Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Massachusetts, which offers mail service pharmacy benefits to its Medco members as well as to many of its group accounts.

"Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Massachusetts is proud to have been instrumental in bringing this facility to Massachusetts," said Steven J. Tringale, vice president for external affairs for Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Massachusetts. "Our relationship with Medco's mail service pharmacy further demonstrates our commitment to finding new ways to provide the highest quality products and services to our customers at reasonable costs," said Tringale.

The Tambone Management Corporation of Burlington has been selected general contractor for the renovations required for pharmacy operations. The building is an existing facility at 500 Research Drive, a Tambone development.

Medco is the nation's largest provider of prescription drug programs to employers and other insurers. Medco dispenses more than 450,000 prescriptions a week through its 10 mail service pharmacies, and processes more than 800,000 prescriptions a week through a network of more than 55,000 retail pharmacies for participants of medical benefit plans funded by employers, insurance companies and government and retiree groups.

Rift erupts in Community Schools management

by Arlene Surprenant

As the Wilmington Community Schools (WCS) moves into its second semester, questions have been raised by the program's former assistant director about her current status and the operation of the adult education program since its rebirth in January. These same questions are expected to be brought up at the April 6 meeting of the Wilmington School Committee.

Until March 23, Melissa Nobile was assistant director of the program. At that time Supt. William Fay wrote a letter to Nobile informing her that her future involvement in WCS "will be limited to instructor." Both Nobile and Director Karen DiGiovine teach computer courses.

Nobile told the Town Crier Fay, in essence, fired her and she was pursuing the matter through the school committee "as a matter of principle." Nobile maintained the superintendent has no "power" to fire her, especially since it was the committee that unanimously approved the program and her role in it.

"I was fired because I questioned. I had concerns and I brought those concerns forward," she said. Nobile was referring to a letter she sent to Fay March 9 requesting monetary and other information about the program. That information, to date, has not been forthcoming.

Both Fay and DiGiovine deny Nobile was fired.

"I didn't fire her. I just ratified what they agreed to themselves," said Fay, adding that Nobile "verbally resigned" at a March 17 meeting he held with the two women.

DiGiovine said Fay's letter was "misconstrued" and it was Nobile herself who asked Fay to make a choice between them. Fay chose DiGiovine based on her "visibility" at the high school and her work to date, the director said.

Both Fay and DiGiovine also said it's ironic that Nobile is seeking information from Fay that she herself should have at hand. In response, the assistant claimed that DiGiovine deliberately kept her in the dark about such things as the qualifications and salaries of teachers who were hired, total monies raised through the program, and the upgrading of school computers.

"I was basically left out of everything," she said.

DiGiovine said the reason Nobile wasn't sent copies of some correspondence and included in some publicity statements was because of her threats to quit the program. She maintained after problems arose over the collection of money during registration on February 24, Nobile again said she was stepping down.

"That was the very last contact I had with Melissa Nobile," DiGiovine said, adding "she had, in my eyes, quit on me twice." Today, three part-time administrative assistants have taken over Nobile's workload and are paid a portion of Nobile's $1,000 salary, said the director. DiGiovine herself earns $2,000 plus extra for her word processing class.

The whole problem seems to center on an apparent inability on the part of the two women to work together. From the beginning, Nobile has questioned why DiGiovine, who holds a high school diploma from Shawsheen Tech and credits from several business courses taken at Bunker Hill Community College, was chosen by Fay to be director when he reportedly said he wanted an educator for the job. Nobile holds a bachelor's degree in business, a master's degree in curriculum and education from Lesley College, and 18 credits toward an MBA. Nobile claims it was her credentials which helped the school board approve the women's proposal in January.

Fay said he did not make DiGiovine the director. He said the two women decided between themselves what their titles would be. According to DiGiovine, it was Nobile's own suggestion that DiGiovine be the director since Nobile works full time as an instructor at Fitchburg College and reportedly lacked spare time. Nobile denies this saying DiGiovine told her Fay had appointed her the director.

Nobile kept a log of her daily involvement with the community schools. That log was part of a packet distributed last week to committee members by committeeman Peg Kane. Nobile's log details her effort to get a flyer printed on course offerings, missed deadlines Nobile claims was due to DiGiovine's lack of organizational skills, and the free printing of 5,000 flyers by a local business. In response, the director said she was under excessive pressure to set up 35 courses in four days. She said communication broke down when Dadant Drive resident Anne Linehan seemed to "take over" in helping Nobile with the flyers and publicity.

"If Melissa and I were left to ourselves we wouldn't have had a problem," DiGiovine said.

Linehan was reportedly one of the prime movers behind the reactivation of the community schools. She is also teaching a course on stress management though she told this paper that one of DiGiovine's assistants had notified Linehan's students, without her knowledge, that her class was cancelled. Linehan noted that Nobile originally went to Fay and volunteered to run the program for free. In addition, Linehan said she and Nobile's family pledged $450 as start-up costs to get the program up and running. When approached by this paper, school board members who were contacted said they were not told of Nobile's offer.

"I don't expect anyone to run the program and do it for free," responded Fay. He said, under the terms of the proposal drawn up by the women, neither the director nor the assistant director would be paid a salary unless there is enough money taken in.

To date, $13,000 has been collected said Fay. Some of that money will be used to pay the instructors when they submit bills for their services. The superintendent added that $500 was taken from the WCS account and sent out to the high school band Friday to cover the first distribution of flyers. In addition, $972 was taken out of a school maintenance account for upgrading computers used both in the system and the evening computer classes.

Some members of the school committee are questioning monetary items like the payment to the band, a $500 line of credit extended to DiGiovine for the printing of flyers but never used because Nobile was able to get the printing done at no cost, and credit given to junior high students for distributing the second set of flyers townwide. That $30 credit for each student, said Fay, will go toward the eighth grade field trip. Other members, like Chairman Aldo Cairra and Phil Fenton, however, said as long as the program remains self-supporting they had no problem with it.

"I'm providing them (WCS leaders) some space; they provide everything else. But if it loses me one penny I want it (the program) killed," Fenton said. He went on to say he does question the use of middle school students in going door to door and he would rather have had a bulk mailing of the flyers.

Nobile expressed anger over the treatment of band leader Barbara Mette and band members after they delivered the course brochures townwide. She said DiGiovine sent a letter to Mette threatening non-payment because band members "didn't do their job."

DiGiovine denied the charge. She explained that after a random check she discovered some homes did not receive the hand-outs.

"My feeling was the success of this program could well depend on the success of the flyer distribution," she said. DiGiovine said she also felt "left out" when both Linehan and Nobile set up the distribution with the band.

DiGiovine said she sent a memo to Mette only offering suggestions to rectify the problem. Among the suggestions were another distribution by the band or using the money for a bulk mailing. Fay concurred with the director that "no one at no time said they weren't to be paid." Though Performing and Fine Arts Director Lorraine Kalil said she was told she would receive the $500 when she submits an invoice, as of Tuesday the check had not arrived.

Nobile now wants a chance to apply for the position of director. She has urged Fay to repost the position for the 1992-93 year. Nobile said she tried to submit her application to Fay March 17 but he refused to accept it. Fay told this paper the time was "inappropriate" because the program was already underway. He said he plans to repost

Wilmington fincom adopts manager's $33.6m budget

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington Finance Committee members last Thursday unanimously approved a $33.6 million budget which will be brought to voters at the April 25 town meeting. Of that budget, $12.1 million is slated for local schools.

According to Chairman Paul Palizzolo, much of the discussion last week centered on the school budget.

"We based everything on a quality education. I want quality education with the dollars we have," he said.

In one scenario, Palizzolo explained the school budget could inflate to $13.1 million if a payroll deferral passes at town meeting and $400,000 to $500,000 in employee raises are not frozen next year.

The chairman admits he has been vocal about the continuing problems facing the town with future loss of state aid and other problems such as potential increases in NESWC, abatements, and the need for such things as more sidewalks in the interest of safety. Palizzolo said he has urged School Supt. William Fay and the school committee to be "realistic" because the fiscal problems will only worsen in the years ahead. He claims neither the teachers' union nor the school board seem to be making children their priority. Witness, he says, the fact that committeemen said they would fund the new teachers' contract by laying off teachers, and the union president stated the committee has to stick to the contract as long as there is one teacher left in the system.

"Funding a contract through layoffs is counter-productive. People want to see their money spent appropriately," said Palizzolo. He charged that the school officials' approach to the budget problem has been "too shortsighted." The chairman said not only he but the rest of his board had some "real concern" about the way school leaders are handling the budget crisis. In the best interest of the schools, however, fincom members decided to give the schools "whatever we could afford."

The town side of the budget was easier for members to accept, primarily because of Town Manager Michael Cairra's approach.

"He had plans for how he would proceed with existing staff and programs after cuts were made," said Palizzolo. He noted, in addition, it was obvious Cairra had the support of all department heads, like Police Chief Bobby Stewart, who assured fincom crossing guards would somehow be in place in September.

Palizzolo said the board is aware that shortfalls will occur in the year ahead but is also confident that they will be "manageable." He said, for instance, that investment income was accepted at five percent but has since dropped to four percent. Also, the workmen's compensation account is being level funded despite the fact that the town had a 59 percent increase last year. He added the town does have $70,000 in reserve to help shore up that account.

Palizzolo said a total of 17 funded positions have been cut from the town side of the budget. The school committee plans to lay off 18 teachers and other personnel. In order to retain employees next year and keep fiscal problems to a minimum, Palizzolo said the town has to look at "different ways of doing things." This might include discontinuing things like longevity increases and retirement bonuses, he said.

"I am convinced, if you give people all the facts, the people will make the right decision. We are trying to do that. As a committee member you put alot of time in people don't see. It gets wearing," said the chairman. But he quickly added, "I don't want any headlines. I just want to make sure the town is operating effectively and it's cost effective."

The next fincom meeting is April 14. Residents will get a chance to vote on the budget in three weeks.

School board rejects grievances

by Arlene Surprenant
Members of the Wilmington School Committee turned a deaf ear Wednesday to two grievance requests filed by the teachers' association and to a request to discuss those grievances in executive session. One grievance concerned large sizes in some middle school classes and the other concerned continuing use of a substitute teacher to teach a physical education course at the high school.

In the first grievance, filed on behalf of 17 teachers in the two middle schools, the WTA claimed each teacher had been assigned classes which are above the limit outlined in the current contract. According to Supt. William Fay, there is no legal class size limit, only "desirable" class sizes outlined in the contract. The recommended sizes are a ratio of one teacher to 25 students at the elementary level and a ratio of one teacher to 20 students in major subjects at the secondary level. In the second grievance, the WTA wants the administration to hire only full time personnel to fill the full time position. To bring that about the WTA suggests the substitute be placed on a teachers' step and be granted the proper salary, benefits, and compensation due a full time teacher.

Committeeman Peg Kane made a motion to discuss the grievances in executive session following a request to do so by WTA President John Wood. She said it was her understanding if either the school board or the WTA objected to discussing the issue in open session it would be all right to discuss the matter behind closed doors. Several committeemen spoke against the motion. John DeMarco maintained unless the discussion centered on contract negotiations an executive session would be illegal under the Open Meeting Law. Chairman Aldo Cairra said a precedent had already been set by the committee when past grievances had been discussed in the open. Bob Peterson agreed saying their own attorney ruled such discussion in public is legal.

Phil Fenton favored an executive session. He said it was more likely the grievances would be resolved in a closed meeting since everything was more informal.

In the end the board went along with a motion to deny both grievances. Fenton opposed the denial. The WTA now has the option of taking the issue to arbitration.

ABOUT CASUALTY LOSSES

Once upon a time - pre 1986, that is - you could deduct on your tax return the entire amount of loss due to casualty or theft, subject only to a reduction of $100 per occurrence. That generous ruling, combined with higher tax rates, meant that Uncle Sam was sharing the risk if uninsured valuables were stolen.

No more. Those losses are now deductible only insofar as they exceed 10 percent of adjusted gross income, and the $100 per occurrence reduction still stands. (Business losses are not subject to the 10 percent of AGI floor).

On personal property, the loss is limited to either the adjusted basis of the property or the diminution of its value as a result of the casualty - whichever is less. For real estate, you measure the loss as the difference between the value of the property immediately before the casualty and right after it. Get an appraiser to document the loss in value due to damaged landscaping and such.

There are special tax treatments available in some cases. Ask us about it at

THE MOST IMPORTANT RESOURCE FOR ANY COMMUNITY IS ITS PEOPLE

Some people think development is the most important issue facing the Town of Wilmington.

Michael McCoy thinks they're wrong.

While development is an important issue, it doesn't begin to measure up to the issues of how we ensure the future quality of life for all our people.

Our seniors understand that. They understand what they and their families have brought to our town and what our town has given back.

Michael McCoy understands. He knows that being selectman means taking your calls, helping citizens through the maze of town government, and voting carefully on issues involving both our pocketbooks and the quality of all our lives.

This newspaper: Has been quoted as saying Michael McCoy did zero as a member of the Wilmington Planning Board and ditto ditto as a member of the Wilmington Board of Selectmen.

I'd like to share yet another story that helped one family and its neighborhood for the better of Wilmington. In March of 1987, as a member of the Wilmington Planning Board, I was at a home on Faulkner Avenue where I was at a neighborhood coffee hour in my honor as a candidate for the Wilmington Board of Selectmen.

Their concern was that an applicant was going to petition the Board of Appeals for a special permit to construct homes on only 5,000 sq. ft. in the neighborhoods of Faulkner Avenue, Cunningham Street, Jacobs Street, Allston Street, and Sudbury Avenue, just to name a few, but there were scattered sites all over the general neighborhoods. In this neighborhood, all the homes are zoned (R20) (20,000 sq. ft. lots). I gave my word at the coffee hour that if I were elected, I would represent them at the Board of Appeals and fight along with the neighbors like the Stokes Family of Jacobs Street, the Rizzo Family of Faulkner Avenue, and many, many more. We won. We defeated this proposal of building homes on 5,000 sq. ft. under the "Webber Amendment" and today, in 1992, people can still relax in their back yards and not worry about a dwelling just inches from their property line.

During my winning election in 1987, my losing election in 1990, and now my bid in 1992, I have accepted no contributions. I have self supported my own three campaigns, so my sole interest is yours; not the special interest groups of the wealthy developer. I will continue to work solely for you.

On April 7, 1992, I will be appearing in Woburn District Court: The Case Robert J. Cain vs. Michael V. McCoy, civil case. This is the case in which I am being sued by Bob Cain for $25,000. Also, there has been, for over two years, an attachment on my home, placed by Bob Cain, because of the incident on 11/13/89, and it had all started over a letter that was sent out to a target group of voters for a favorable Proposition 2 1/2 override, which, in fact, Michael McCoy chose not to support and which in fact, Bob Cain was in favor of the Proposition 2 1/2 override. Mr. Cain chose to mail out this letter knowing well in advance that I didn't want my name attributed to the Proposition 2 1/2 override, which was the subject of this letter.

Danger — keep out

by Larz F. Neilson

The Rocco landfill in South Tewksbury has been in the news quite a bit lately. A long-festering situation that has been brought to the forefront by concerned residents, the dump is a problem that demands attention.

Some 57 chemicals have been identified in the landfill area, and other chemicals are present that have not yet been identified. While there is no scientific or adjudicated proof of a link between the dump and specific medical problems, it does not take a rocket scientist to know that people should not carelessly expose themselves to some of the chemicals on the list.

If there is one troubling aspect to the reports on the dump, it is that children are still seen playing on the landfill and in swamps and woodlands nearby. Somehow, whether it is on a dare or just the childhood belief of eternal life and health, some children are ignoring warnings and are still exposing themselves to chemical dangers.

The residents group TOXIC has requested a fence, but it has yet to be erected. And while a fence will help, it is not the total solution to the problem. The chemicals will still be there, and so will the attractive nuisance. Sometimes putting up a fence just tempts kids to climb it.

Parents need to emphatically warn children to stay away from the landfill area, and surrounding woodlands and swamps where there are reports of buried materials.

Immediate neighbors of the dump have expressed great concern for their health. But residents of both towns should recognize that children love to explore new territory, and may stumble into the dump area without realizing the danger.

Exposure to the chemicals on this site may have unforeseen, long-term health effects. Nobody can say for sure what may or may not result from exposure, but a word of warning to the kids certainly will not hurt.

frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

The only point people seem to agree on in the race for Wilmington selectmen is that the field of candidates provides every potential for surprise. The most challenging question is how will voters match their votes. That is to say, if your first choice is Candidate A, who do you most likely pick for the number two slot. This is to say nothing of the possibility that given camps might be asking their supporters for so called "bullet votes," meaning they hit a lever for only one selectman candidate even though they have two votes for two seats. This weights the one vote given, allowing for an advantage for your favorite contender.

Rating the candidates is no more scientific that last week's exercise, but is nonetheless based on the forever-active grapevine and hopefully some political instincts. The scale is constant:

The Race for Selectmen

****Bank on This One

****In the Hunt, but...

***Something is Missing Here

**Spoiler

*Call Cavanaugh's or Nichols

Chet Bruce **** Spared any anti-incumbency sentiments directed at his board, Bruce effectively portrays himself as the "independent" town father free from clan politics. In point of fact, Bruce has a clan of his own, but they're simply not fellow board members, in which case Bruce would be a strong majority and not the lone minority.

In any event, the independent strategy works and the fiscal conservatism sells like hot cakes. Bruce hustles on constituency work maintaining a high visibility in town. Putting aside talk of vote splitting because of other candidates in the race hailing from similar political networks, Bruce has earned a cadre of supporters and a reputation as an incumbent who really hasn't done anything to deserve being put on waivers.

Tom Siracusa **** If Tom wins this thing on April 18 it proves that stars rise at a dramatic speed in politics. Siracusa seems to be running on his resume more than any other candidate and he's the only pol I know who can really say, "I'm a rocket scientist."

Clearly the candidate with the current momentum, Siracusa wins the media award for the last ten days following the dismissal of Ella Belmore. The benefit is a perception of being a smart, decisive leader which is Siracusa's best campaign course for winning the number two slot on the board. Tom's in the hunt, but the question mark is can he beat the better name recognition of others on the ballot.

He has three weeks left to do this.

Gerry Duggan **** If there was ever a wild card in a Wilmington election, it's candidate Gerry Duggan. Name recognition for the wild card is not a problem, but identifying with him politically is. Nonetheless, Duggan is well-known and liked, ingredients which have made for successful political neophytes in the past. Selectman Bob Doucette, retiring from the board this year, was hardly equated with political gamesmanship when he challenged John Imbimbo nine years ago. Doucette's victory was attributed to his personal reputation, proving that a "non-political good guy" makes for a serious contender in small town elections.

Duggan can make victory a greater possibility by frequenting voters with his political agenda and articulating a vision for the community. This will add fuel to the fire of commentary circulating town that Gerry Duggan can win this election and pull an upset.

Tony Capuano *** Peaking too early is deadly in politics, and that's the problem the Capuano camp faces today, three weeks out from the election. Capuano began the year as a favorite for the open seat due to his surprising performance last year and a steady flow of media attention. This heightened a few weeks ago as Capuano went after everybody's favorite target, the Redevelopment Authority.

The accompanying press put Capuano ahead of the pack, but it was a brief flirtation with front-runner status too far away from voting day. Since then, voters have focused on Tom Siracusa while many continue to speculate at the chances of Gerry Duggan.

Capuano has a grassroots appeal and would attract support from the "anti-establishment crowd." Capuano needs to distinguish himself during the final days of the campaign to regain his head-of-the-pack status. If he can find an issue where he can project himself again, Capuano will be back in the hunt.

Elmer "Fudgy" Parker * The first lesson of politics is never to trust a guy who actually calls himself "Fudgy". Just back from his Fifth Amendment performance at the Cambridge Court House, my bet is "Fudgy" might break the 200 vote mark... maybe.

Mike McCoy ** The former selectman will be remembered as the first candidate to run negative ads against himself. McCoy's advertising reveals an almost Shakespearean undertone, taken from a tragic play. King Lear to be sure.

The fact is, McCoy actually had a shot here. Painting a new image from day one and talking about anything other than you now what would have benefited him. Instead, the only person talking and writing about "the incident" has, ironically, been McCoy himself.

The voters have been carefully reminded about all the people Mike hates and all the people conspiring each and every waking hour against Mike. But maybe, just maybe, the voters would prefer some substantive issues minus all the personalities. One immediate anchor on his ankle may be the civil and criminal court dates both scheduled for trial prior to the election. McCoy tried in vain last Friday to delay the civil case against him.

McCoy can't win this because of his own campaign, so he is a spoiler. The question is who does he hurt and who does he help? Some of the other candidates have reason to worry about the spoiler factor, which will contribute to who wins and who loses.

Ordinance Fatigue

I'm trying to assimilate exactly what threat is posed to our local society by political lawn signs. I've even tried to conceptualize the potential hazard to automobiles, which might collide with the aforementioned objects. My knowledge of physics dictates that regardless of color, the sign would be the loser.

But every year, as sure as the candidates give speeches, Wilmington authorities crack their electoral whip at the paper signs, fighting a self-invented cause against the evils of free political expression. Actually, their marching orders come from a town meeting edict.

Do you get the feeling we need Boris Yeltsin more than they do?

Ever since a court ruling regarding a Needham man, local politicos have been remiss to outlaw the signs altogether. The Needham local yokel defiantly cited his Constitution after his town tried to yank a lawn sign, which he cherished as much as the little jockey statue holding a lamp at the head of his driveway.

In Wilmington, we take this sign business much too seriously. Perhaps it's our mental therapy. The powers at Town Hall, the Glen Club, require... ordain... that signs be limited to one per landscape and not exceed six square feet in area. Further, these evil things will be 25 feet back from the pavement.

Punishment is not castration, but a nonetheless painful $50 fine, per sign, per day.

All of this is complete government nonsense, violating free and reasonable expression, to say nothing of common sense. Considering what's happened to local tax bills, the Glen Club telling me that I can't have two signs outside the porch is ludicrous. Take me to court, pal.

More ludicrous is the treatment of Wilmington constabulary. Armed with nine millimeter, semi-automatic Austrian Glock pistols, with a 17 bullet clip, police will now ticket your lawn, not just your car.

It's as offensive to an honest taxpayer as it is humiliating and demeaning to law enforcement professionals who weren't trained at the police academy for the sake of lawn patrol. It's like your kid with a Harvard degree working at McDonald's. Let's get real here. Police exist to protect and serve, if I remember my Adam 12 correctly. Silly-nilly details are hardly their forte, and hardly justify their salaries and the public's investment in their training.

They can do better and more, and we deserve better and more than ridiculous public policy which only adds to the more-popular-than-ever conception that America is just one, big retarded bureaucracy.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

Each year at this time, candidates for local political office use the newspapers to get their message to the voting public. The use of ads and commentaries to inform the public of the office seekers stand on the issues is a time-honored and accepted practice. What is unacceptable to us, as (Tewksbury-ed.) town employees, is the recent practice of some candidates who find it fashionable to use us as the whipping boys for many of the town's problems. This year appears to be no different with one exception. As a group, we employees decided some months ago that we would no longer sit idly by while candidates played fast and loose with the truth. We made a commitment to challenge any and all comments by candidates that we know to be untrue. We refer in this case to a political ad that recently appeared in a weekly newspaper with headlines that read:

"Are you Angry with Incumbent Selectmen Who?"

(1) Impose a trash fee on you while town departments receive hundreds of thousands of dollars in overtime?

Fact: from July 1, 1991 to February 6, 1992 the three largest departments combined (fire, police and DPW) have spent approximately $65,000 on overtime. The breakdown is as follows and is rounded off to the nearest dollar.

Police Dept.: ($9300 in o.t.) Court Time: $5000 which is now worked for compensatory time off, matron duty, mandated by state law whenever a female prisoner is locked up, tactical patrol, called out on serious crime issues on a mutual aid basis, special investigations, etc.

Fire Dept.: ($24,000 in o.t.) Fires: $8,000 - FLSA or fair labor and standards act $4000, fire dispatchers are civilian employees who work a 42 hour week. The FLSA is a federal law that mandates that they be paid time and one half for all hours worked over 40 hours. Defibrillator training: $1400 - law requires that all EMT's be certified on the defibrillator. The department has three which were donated by town residents. Fire alarm: $4000 - emergency repairs to fire alarm system caused by vehicle accidents, bad wind storms, etc.

Dept. of Public Works: ($32,000 in o.t.) Hydrant flushing and repair plan: $10,000 - water system is nearly 40 years old and in need of flushing and repairs. Normally done late at night so as not to disrupt residential and commercial water supply. Water Treatment Plant: $6000 - treatment plant is kept open beyond normal working hours when the reservoirs are low in the summer months. Town determined it was cheaper to pay overtime than to purchase water from Andover and Lowell. Emergency repairs on water main breaks. Emergency tree work caused by unforeseen circumstances such as Hurricane Bob and a subsequent violent wind storm a few weeks later. Emergency street repairs, etc.

If you add up the three figures listed next to the department you will see they total approximately $65,000. You will note that a significant amount of the total is expended due to emergencies or because of mandated State or Federal Laws. Many employees have not received any overtime at all during the past year.

We do not intend to discuss in depth the other points mentioned in the ad other to state that if you investigate their claims, as we did, you'll find they misrepresent the facts. As an example, one statement asked you, the voter, if you are angry with incumbent selectmen who "endanger the lives of children with unsafe school buildings." Selectmen have no jurisdiction over school buildings and to imply that they would knowingly endanger the lives of the children is an atrocious and shameful comment. We checked with school administrator John Ryan and learned that the School Committee has consistently requested funding to upgrade the buildings, but because of budget restraints the money is not available. That being the case it is not the selectmen's fault or the school committee's fault, we are all to blame.

In conclusion, we asked all department heads if this candidate had contacted them to ascertain the facts prior to the time the ad appeared in the paper. The answer from all of them was no. The simple facts are that the town departments are not receiving hundreds of thousands of dollars in overtime. If that were the case the North Fire Station would be open and there would be more cruisers on the road. Since the inception of Prop. 2 1/2 we have consistently taken cuts in salaries and benefits to balance the town budget. Since 1989 the town has seen state aid drop $5,500,000. This year alone we have given back to the town approximately 800,000 dollars through concession such as furloughs (no work and no pay), compensatory time off in lieu of overtime, five percent pay cuts and other job related benefits.

We often ask our public officials to have the courage to make tough decisions and the trash fee was not only a tough one, but political suicide. Anyone who believes the selectmen made that decision to provide overtime money for town employees should do as we did and research the facts. You'll learn as we did that to do otherwise would have seriously harmed education, public safety and the quality of life in our community. So before writing rebuttals we challenge you to contact and question the department heads, the finance committee, the town manager, the auditor and the treasurer. Let's all work toward a better Tewksbury.

Oh yes, employees are taxpayers too!!

Dear Larz:

I would like to invite all residents of Tewksbury and Wilmington to a Toxic rally Saturday, April 4. It will be held at the Trahan School, Salem Street, near South Tewksbury Fire Station. We urge all Tewksbury voters to vote first and then join our rally at noon.

We have been promised a fence to be put around the Rocco landfill. We were supposed to have received word by the end of February; then it was changed to the end of March. As of this writing, we have received no word. We need a fence around the landfill to keep children and animals away from toxic substances.

We urge all those going to the rally to take a piece of fence or just a picket (wooden or paper) will do. It is just symbolic of the fence we need. We will have petitions to sign and letters to governmental officials to have people sign as well.

Show those in a position of power who have the ability to make a difference that our community is behind this effort. Let's start down the road to getting our community and neighborhood as environmentally healthy as we possibly can! Bring your children as well; all are welcome.

Sincerely,
Judy Fittery
Spokesperson, Toxic
P.S. Appearances by elected State and Federal officials promised.

Dear Larz:

On January 23, 1992 I was involved in a head-on collision on Aldrich Road, Wilmington in which my six year old son was injured. I am happy to say that my son is fully recovered from his injuries. But before any more time elapses, I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to the Wilmington Fire Department, the Police Department, and the EMTs who responded to the accident scene. Their concern, gentleness, reassurances and care were a true representation of the professionals that they are. Their presence and their actions helped make a traumatic situation bearable. They are certainly a credit to the Departments on which they serve.

Also, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to the gentleman in the white van, a passerby who was first on the scene. This gentleman truly went out of his way to help us. His reassuring presence and aid were a Godsend. To this gentleman: the mother in the red Volvo station wagon thanks you from the bottom of her heart!!

Sincerely,
Yvonne and
Alex MacGilvray,
Billerica

Dear Larz:

I would like to take this opportunity, through your column, to publicly thank the teaching staff of the Wilmington schools, especially the High School, for the education that I received. I am currently a senior and as I reflect on the past 12 years, I realize how fortunate I've been to have had the teachers and staff who care so much about my future. Their efforts and concern have been second to none. They've always been there whenever I sought their help or advice or needed someone to confide in.

In these tough economic times, their enthusiasm has never wavered. We are very lucky to have such a dedicated and caring staff of teachers in Wilmington. On a final note, I have one message to leave to the people of this community before I graduate in June. Wake up and pay attention to education because the children of Wilmington are your future.

Sincerely
Matt McManus
Class of 1992

Dear Fred:

I feel that Kevin Sowyrda's story regarding Candidate Kevin Comtois in the March 25, 1992 edition of the Town Crier needs clarification.

Mr. Comtois is not now, nor has he ever been employed by me.

In 1984 Mr. Comtois participated in a two week voluntary intern program offered by me to students from both high schools in my district.

WHO IS TONY CAPUANO?

WHY TONY CAPUANO WILL BE A GREAT SELECTMAN

* Tony is 56 years old and has lived in the Town of Wilmington for 20 years with his wife Rita. He has two sons Chris and Mark.

* A man who said he would work hard for the people, as a private citizen.

* A man who, in a field of four, came in second in last April's election, receiving approximately 1,000 votes in an extremely close finish.

* A man whose business experience and street knowledge can only be a plus for a Selectman in resolving whatever problems or issues come about.

* A man who knows where to get the answers and has proven it by what he has already accomplished.

* A man who has already represented you, the people of the neighborhoods of Wilmington by dealing only with the truth and the facts.

WHAT HAS HE DONE?

* At 3:00 one Wednesday afternoon, while selectmen and other candidates were busy at work or attending to their businesses. Tony Capuano was called by Mr. Henry Sullivan and asked to speak as a private citizen at town hall, representing the people regarding the Raffi and Swanson problem.

* When Tony determined that the proposed sewer project was going to be a disaster for people on fixed incomes and others who would have to bear the brunt of the six to ten thousand dollar betterment fees, let alone the ten-fold increase in water costs, he submitted his own sewer and water bills to substantiate that the decision to borrow seven million dollars was wrong. It was wrong because it would have to be paid by the already overburdened taxpayer.

* There was no question that the decision to borrow $7 million would have to be rescinded. So, Tony and several other involved citizens, gathered the signatures needed to present their case at a special Town Meeting. Tony stood up and told of the devastation this project would cause. Fortunately, the people of Wilmington listened and prevailed. The sewer project, at least for now, has been defeated.

Christopher, Rita, Tony and Mark

- * Tony will NEVER be a puppet.
- * Tony has no business or special interests to protect.
- * Tony has no ties or obligations to anyone except you, the citizens and working people of Wilmington.
- * Tony will not have conflicting interests affecting his decisions.
- * Tony has the time and the proven leadership ability to get things done.

TONY'S RECORD SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

Stopped trucking on Middlesex Ave., Salem St., Glen Rd., and Ballardvale St.

Took the people to the Governor (approximately 40 taxpayers).

Worked hard to help stop the Sewer Project.

Budget, Budget, Budget!! For those who consider quality education an important priority, don't miss this meeting! Superintendent William Fay will address the implications of a declining educational system and its impact on our children's future at a meeting on April 7, 1992, 7 p.m. at Wilmington High School.

Also, two dates to mark on your calendar are Monday, April 6, at 8 p.m. is the next School Committee meeting and Wednesday, April 8, is League of Women Voters Candidates' Night.

Grade three boys and girls came back to school Friday, March 27 from 6:30 to 10:30 for Prime Time Read. The focus of the night was on reading for pleasure. Time was planned for quiet reading in the gym and games throughout the building.

The Partners in Excellence program in which our fourth grade students participated was an outstanding success. The special time set aside for reading outside school will prove beneficial to the children, and the reference material earned for our classrooms from World Book will be put to good use by students and teachers. Our school earned five sets of World Book, four sets of Childcraft, four sets of the Young Scientist, one dictionary set, two atlas, and three Science Desk Reference and Resource Books. Certificates of achievement and silver and gold medals were presented to recognize those students who reached their reading goals. During the seven week program our students read the equivalent of over 1200 books!!

The PAC assemblies for March were storyteller Doug Lipman and the Zoomobile. Both were enjoyed thoroughly by the children. PAC activities coming in April are the family roller skating night on Thurs., April 9 from 6 to 8 p.m. at RollerWorld in Saugus. Tickets are on sale now. We will also be participating in the Star Share Fundraiser April 14-16.

The next PAC meeting is Tues., April 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria. An agenda will be posted on the PAC bulletin board outside the school library the week of April 20.

Woburn Street School

Woburn Street School Kindergartners in Miss Fields' class have celebrated their 100th day of Kindergarten. These children have constructed two sculptures out of 100 cans of soup and then donated these 200 cans of soup to the Wilmington Food Commissary. With spring in the air, the 810 youngsters are learning about wind and have created kites to watch them fly. Welcome to student teacher Dawn Young from Fitchburg State College.

Reading and writing are springtime favorites at the Woburn Street School. Mrs. Coffills students have successfully experienced Biography Day. The children shared information on many sports figures and men and women in history. Thank you to Mrs. Bendel who volunteered her morning to film the big day. The children are anxious to have their turn taking the tape home to share with their families.

Mrs. Marshall's class after reading "Who Took the Farmer's Hat?" in their reading book, have developed a similar story called "Where are my Blue Suspenders?" Each child now has his own copy of the book personally illustrated. In addition, a copy has been made for the classroom library.

The spring fundraiser was a great success. Thank you to all who took part and a special thanks to our co-chairpeople Ann Marie Maleszyk and Leslie Waisnor who organized this fundraiser.

The next PAC meeting is Tuesday, April 7 in the high school auditorium. Superintendent of Schools Bill Fay will speak on the school budget.

Walk for Youth May 3

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington youth will be the major beneficiaries of a Walk For Youth Walkathon planned by the Wilmington Lions Club for May 3.

At last week's meeting of the local school committee, representatives of the Lions Club outlined their idea for an annual walkathon which would benefit not only their own charities like eye research, but students and local sports programs as well. Lions Club member Rocco DePasquale explained that students in grades seven through 12 will be encouraged to join the walkathon to raise money that would be held in escrow until their senior year. Fifty percent of the money raised by each class level, beginning this year, will be put into a trust and used for scholarship aid when each class reaches its senior year. As an additional incentive, the class which raises the most money will be awarded a $500 bonus, said DePasquale.

Fellow member Paul Fleming, principal of Wilmington High, pointed out that the walk each spring would not interfere with one run by the Community Fund each September. He said that organization endorsed the club's effort.

School committeemen supported the idea and thanked the Lions Club for their generosity and help during some difficult financial times. Supt. William Fay noted the Lions Club also sponsors the National Honor Society Banquet each year.

Students, families, and friends are urged to sign up for the walkathon. The walk will get underway at the Town Common at 1 p.m. on May 3. Any participant who raises a total of $50 will be awarded an inscribed t-shirt. Free hot dogs and cold drinks will be available to all marchers at the end of the walk.

Contract negotiations to continue

by Arlene Surprenant
School contract negotiations will continue despite a move by two members of the Wilmington School Committee to postpone a vote on three contracts until after the April 18 election.

At last week's committee meeting, both Peggy Kane and Dr. Shirley Callan urged the board to delay votes on contracts for the superintendent, the business manager, and the mini-bus drivers until they see if the make-up of the board changes this month. They pointed out members often complained in the past because they had been forced to live with contracts negotiated by previous board members. Since there is only a few weeks until the election, the women said it would be fairer to delay a final vote.

The board has been meeting in executive session to discuss the contracts. Dr. Callan said she was not against discussing the agreements, only against taking a final vote should an agreement be reached. Kane pointed out there was no rush on any of the contracts since the earliest contract is up in June.

Fellow members argued against the motion to table the discussions. Phil Fenton noted such a move would make three committeemen "lame duck" officials.

"I'm not about to take away their rights the voters gave them," he said.

Paglia, who is up for re-election, opted to continue discussion. "I don't think an election changes our business," she said.

Bob Peterson called the motion to halt negotiations "ludicrous."

The motion failed in a five-two vote.

Applications available for pre-school

Lottery applications will be available in the Pre-school room at Wilmington High School Friday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. April 3, April 10 and May 1, 1992.

Parents wishing to view the program are invited to Open Houses April 28 and 30 from 8 to 10:30 a.m.

The past year, the Pre-school Program included two separate four day sessions: a four day morning session for three-year-olds and a four day afternoon session for four and five-year-olds. Each session was approximately two and a half hours a day in duration.

It is our intention to provide a similar program for next year, but this will depend on the age, number and needs of next year's pre-school registrants.

Current tuition is $130.00 a month and next year's tuition has yet to be established. A $25 non-refundable application fee is due with the application. An original copy of the child's birth certificate must also be presented at the time of registration.

Applications will be accepted by mail with $25 fee and the child's birth certificate. Birth certificate will be promptly returned. Deadline for all applications will be May 1, 1992.

Pre-school children returning for a second year will not have to enter the lottery but must register.

The Wilmington High School Pre-school Program provides a high quality pre-school experience for three, four and five-year-old children. An early childhood teacher, a high school child development teacher and a staff of qualified high school child development students provide an ideal child-staff ratio for a maximum of 15 pre-school children in each session. Four spaces are available in each session for children with mild special needs. This program also gives high school students, considering a career working with children, a realistic hands-on experience as they help plan and assist pre-school children with games, arts and crafts, songs, stories and snacks.

Nuke to rock-o Tewksbury dump

The Rocco Landfill problem will be solved within seconds on April 14, according to Gerry Sullivan from the state's Department of Environmental Protection.

Swords to Plovers Program, he said, a tactical nuclear weapon will be buried and detonated under the dump on that date.

"Why go through all the hassle of the 01876 ZIP code. He said a much larger bomb was first considered, but he said it would be better than what's there now."

(April Fool — only kidding)

Local teachers demonstrate their favorite technique for staying young — Big Wheel Workshops, where they learn the most important aspects of kidspak.

Vanna and Sajak to spin

A candidate for selection in the annual town meeting will decide whether or not to secede from the United States and join the former Soviet Union.

"Our budget is so tight we have to drastically reduce the town services selection voted to put an article for town employees possible and might even allow school classes of fewer than 75 students."

"Russia still respects and admires Sullivan said. "And since the state began collecting negative local aid a town years ago, we've been placed in a real bind."

Wilmington Town Hall?

Due to continuing shortfalls in the remaining schools and putting the last cruiser up for sale, due to lack of funds, while the South fire station was closed last December after South Tewksbury burned to the ground in its entirety.

On Tuesday night, however, the selection voted to put an article for town employees possible and might even allow school classes of fewer than 75 students."

"Russia still respects and admires Sullivan said. "And since the state began collecting negative local aid a town years ago, we've been placed in a real bind."

Will Tewksbury find success in secession?

Using the official exchange rate of 10 rubles to the dollar, the town manager said, the town budget will be more than triple if Tewksbury joins the former Soviet Union. The black market rate of 50 rubles the dollar, he said, would make pay raises for town employees possible and might even allow school classes of fewer than 75 students."

"Russia still respects and admires Sullivan said. "And since the state began collecting negative local aid a town years ago, we've been placed in a real bind."

(April Fool — only kidding)

Ninja Turtles have been found surfing in the water along the shore.

Long-necked proposal for twin restaurants

The skyline atop Funland will soon be sporting twin sky-tower restaurants, if the Tewksbury Aviation Authority okays plans that were submitted last week. The restaurants would be built atop the giraffes, one of which is currently out to the vet.

O'Neill told members of his Tewksbury Aviation Authority that the plan to build twin sky-tower restaurants atop the giraffes at Funland, He told the authority that the restaurants would be only eight stories tall, plus the height of the giraffes. He said he didn't see any problem with the landing pattern at the nearby airport.

"Hey, let them land from the other direction," he said. "Besides, don't those planes have brakes?"

(April Fool — only kidding)

Goose gallery may revive lake economy

Wilmington officials have announced a plan to open a stuffed goose museum in the old Silver Lake railroad station.

The goose museum is seen as an answer to the problem town officials were wrestling with last year — too many Canada geese at the lake.

Details of the plan have yet to be finalized, but may involve hiring a local poacher to capture and stuff the geese.

"I think it's a great way for the town to privatize the Silver Lake game warden," said Elmer Tudball, the town manager. "Besides, then we won't have to worry about where to cash, at the site of the old station."

Tip o' the ole fedora

A spirited top of the old fedora goes this week to the publisher of the Town Crier who is now back in his Lowell Street office in Wilmington after several sojourns to the hospital in the past several weeks.

The first was to Winchester, something over two weeks. Then there was a transfer to the Lahey Clinic, to test the lungs and other methods of inhaling fresh air. That episode lasted a few days and Larz was sent home.

On April 22, he suddenly became ill and was again taken to Winchester Hospital. That, it seems (according to Larz) provided an opportunity which was not missed and he was sent from one room to another, being tested and tested some mo.; the last test was for his brain and - sez Larz, "they found one!"

Another tip

Also offered a spirited tip of the old fedora this week are the Scouts and Cubs of Troop 56, (sponsored by the Congregational Church), who collected more than 1000 food items for donation to the the Wilmington Commissary, where they will be distributed to families in need.

Well done, group, very well done indeed!!

Duggan seeks selectman's seat

Recently retired Wilmington Firefighter, Gerald R. (Gerry) Duggan, has announced his candidacy for a seat on the Board of Selectmen.

A native and life long resident of Wilmington, Duggan lives at 76 Butters Row with his wife Ann, a registered nurse, and two daughters, Kerri, a graduate of Wilmington High School and Bay State College, and Cristin, a senior at Wilmington High School.

Duggan, who attended both Middlesex and North Shore Community Colleges, served the Town of Wilmington for over 22 years as a firefighter and emergency medical technician. A leader of the Wilmington Firefighters Local 1370 I.A.F.F., he has held the offices of president, vice president and secretary/treasurer. He currently serves on the membership services committee of the Professional Firefighters of Mass.

A deacon in his church, Duggan serves on the churches Care Committee, which aids families in crisis, he also is active on the churches Outreach Committee and has been the Senior Youth Advisor since 1986. He is also active in the Parents and Friends of the Wilmington Wildcat Bands.

A member of the North Reading Lodge of Masons, he serves on the Masonic Awareness Committee and Demolay Advisory Board. He also coordinates recycling efforts for the Lodge, the proceeds of which go to the D.A.R.E. program and other charities supported by the Masons.

A life long environmentalist, Duggan favors expansion of our local recycling efforts and would promote an effective outreach campaign to encourage greater participation by individuals. He supports close monitoring and strict enforcement of air and water quality regulations and would foster the use of advanced technology to correct problems of environmental pollution.

Deeply concerned with issues facing both our elderly and handicapped citizens who face increased cutbacks in vital services, he would work to strengthen communications between the town and these groups. He believes we should begin now to plan for the provision of vital services at the local level and that the elderly and handicapped should be made full participants in that planning process.

In the area of public education, Duggan believes that we need to work together to find creative ways to finance and structure innovative curricula that will provide our children with the tools they will need to succeed in a global economy.

Given his life time career in the field, Duggan has given priority to the issues of public health and safety. "Hazards in our public and commercial buildings, compounded by our congested and sometimes obstructed roadways pose an ongoing danger to ourselves and our children. We can no longer wait to address these issues. They must be resolved now."

Finally, local government must make every effort to create incentives for new business development and for existing businesses to locate in Wilmington.

Duggan believes that his life time of experience and service in the community has given him the knowledge, insight and commitment to serve the people of Wilmington well as a member of the Board of Selectmen.

McCoy is candidate for selectman

It is with great excitement and expectation that I formally announce my candidacy for the office of Selectman in Wilmington.

I choose to offer myself for this office with an understanding of the demands of the office and a clear vision of how I believe Wilmington should proceed in the months and years to come.

I believe expansion without explanation and an attitude which favors development over neighborhoods at all costs, is shortsighted and irrational.

The neighborhoods of Wilmington and the people who occupy them deserve to understand that the expended continued growth of our town is conducted in a rational and sensitive manner.

My three years experience on the planning board and my three years experience on the Wilmington Board of Selectmen, along with the strong stands I've taken on town meeting floor, selectmen meetings or at public hearings, per request by the neighborhoods, have shown that people can rely on me to press for answers when others were terrified to ask questions. People in neighborhoods realize that they had a friend and a voice on the board of selectmen and that friend and voice was that of Michael McCoy.

As a graduate of Wilmington Public Schools, the University of Lowell, and a holder of a masters of arts degree from Anna Maria College, I believe I am educationally qualified for the post I seek.

But education means nothing if it is not linked to a commitment of one's community. As a member of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, Sons of Italy, member of the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks, Wilmington Town Democratic Committee and as a local merchant "Michael's Place," I have stayed committed to my community. It is this commitment I wish to expand through my role as your town selectman once again.

On a personal note: since 1984, I have always been a proud sponsor of Wilmington sports. I've sponsored a youth hockey team, the Wilmington Boosters, Little League, girls basketball, and many more youth and church activities.

Over the course of the next decade which will lead us to the year 2000, I believe issues such as safe water, infrastructure repair, expansion of youth and elder services, local economics, and of course, the issue of development will touch all our lives.

As the next few weeks before the election unfold, I hope to have the opportunity to speak to many of you individually about your concerns and my goals as I have always done in the past. Together we can insure a quality of life for ourselves and our children which will benefit all those who care about our community.

This is my goal as selectman and my pledge to you as I begin my candidacy. I hope you will give me the opportunity once again to serve you.

Jackson is candidate for school committee

Citing his fiscal conservative background and his record as a member of the Wilmington Finance Committee, Bradford L. Jackson has recently announced his candidacy for a three year term on the Wilmington School Committee. With his experience as former vice chairman of the Wilmington Finance Committee, Jackson has pledged to increase the School Committee's focus and expertise on the budget. Jackson also served as an appointed member of the school Committee from September 1989 through April 1990. During that time, he earned a reputation as a hard working, objective School Committee member with an ability to act as peace maker, bringing board members with diverse backgrounds together to work toward common goals.

"It's important, Jackson commented recently, "that the school Committee consist of members with varying backgrounds and experiences. My business experience and education will bring a much needed focus on fiscal matters to the Committee. I pledge to spend taxpayer money as though it came out of my own pocket, not as it is there for the asking."

Jackson, 35, is married to the former Patricia Carta. They live on Garden Avenue with their four children, Jessica, eight, a second grade student at the Woburn Street School; Katianna, six, attending kindergarten at the Woburn Street School; Sarah four and Brad, 16 months. Jackson holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Management and a Master's Degree in Business Administration from Babson College. He is a 12 year employee of Digital Equipment Corporation.

Jackson has been an active volunteer on behalf of the children of Wilmington. In addition to his service on the Finance Committee and School Committee, Jackson is a member of the Woburn Street School PAC, and has served as a coach in the Wilmington Youth Soccer League and a volunteer umpire in the Wilmington Little League. Also, during the past two years, Jackson has served on the Board of Directors that raised over $25,000 of private funding to build the Fun Zone, Merrimack Valley's first handicapped-accessible playground. "Being a fiscal conservative means you look for creative, alternative sources of funding when the taxpayers are struggling with a tight economy. The Fun Zone provided much needed playground equipment for the 600 kids attending the Woburn Street School and didn't cost the taxpayers a cent. This is the type of fiscal creativity I will bring to the School Committee."

In his recent campaign announcement, Jackson concluded: "The children of Wilmington deserve the best education we can provide. But, given the current financial condition of the Town of Wilmington and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, meeting that goal will be difficult. It is time for new faces and new ideas. It's time to get the Wilmington School Committee back to business."

Brenton to announce re-election bid

State Rep. Marianne Brenton (R-Burlington, Bedford, Precinct 3, Wilmington) will be joined by State Treasurer Joe Malone, her supporters and friends on Thursday, April 2, 1992 as she formally announces her re-election campaign.

"It's really hard to believe that another election is already upon us, especially when we consider the magnitude of what has happened in Massachusetts over the course of just a year," said Brenton, a former school committee member serving her freshman term in the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

Citing the "successful strategy of Republicans" used to balance last year's budget without raising taxes, Brenton said her campaign kickoff speech will focus on the "New Philosophy" on Beacon Hill.

"What we've done is revolutionary. We inherited a big government from Mike Dukakis, based on big spending and big taxes. We've completely reformed that, demanding that taxes be kept low and that a dollar's worth of services be provided for every tax dollar spent," said Brenton, adding, "We're going to be as tough on crime as we are on spending."

Rep. Brenton, a member of the Transportation State Administration Committees in the House, was appointed by Governor William Weld last year to the special commission on education reform in Massachusetts. Brenton said her high visibility on Beacon Hill working on state wide issues will be second only to her constituency work in the communities. "My formal re-election announcement on Thursday night will emphasize our work right here at home, in the district. A good legislator has to be in the neighborhoods every single day, and not hidden away at the state capital."

The Brenton campaign kickoff will run from six to eight o'clock Thursday evening at the American Legion Hall, Winn Street, Burlington.

McMenimen seeks return to school committee

Linda T. McMenimen of 14 Grace Drive has announced her candidacy for the Wilmington School Committee. A former member of the committee from 1976-1985, Mrs. McMenimen feels that "it's time to restore a sense of purpose and a voice of reason to the board."

"I feel that the present committee wastes precious time on non-instructional topics and often discussions revolve around personalities rather than important educational issues."

A 27 year resident of Wilmington, Linda is presently the Chapter I Director at the Greater Lowell Regional Vocational School in Tyngsboro. She was elected Teacher of the Year in 1990 by the faculty of Greater Lowell.

A 1963 graduate of Emmanuel College, Linda has also earned a Master's Degree in reading and language from the University of Lowell and a Certificate of Advanced Graduate Studies (CAGS) from the University of Massachusetts, Boston.

A former member of the Wilmington High School Parent Advisory Council and Wilmington Boosters, Linda has also coached Little League and Senior League softball. She is a member of the Wilmington Sons of Italy and is chairperson of this year's scholarship committee.

"Both of my children graduated from the Wilmington School System and I was very satisfied with the education they received. Christine (Class of '84) graduated from Boston College in 1988 and is presently a Spanish teacher at the Stoneham Middle School. Joe, Jr. (Class of '88) will graduate from Boston College in May with a degree in Marketing/Management."

Linda is married to Joe McMenimen who is vice-president of Tilcon-Mass, an asphalt paving company.

"I feel that I can bring valuable experience and common sense to the committee. I am an independent thinker with no hidden agendas. My reason for running for the Wilmington School Committee is to try to refocus the board's effort to provide a quality education for the students of Wilmington at a price the taxpayers can afford."

MassBank announces program for lead paint abatement

MassBank for Savings is spearheading a campaign to help rid this area of hazardous lead paint by offering a new discounted loan program for lead paint abatement in local homes.

According to Bank President Gerard Brandi, MassBank for Savings is providing discounted loans from $1,000 to $10,000 for up to 10 years to local residential property owners whose owner-occupied properties contain lead paint. The loan rate is two percent below the Bank's most current interest rate for Property Improvement Loans. Qualified applicants must meet the obligations of the Massachusetts Lead Law.

Brandi said, "Lead paint is a serious health hazard to everyone, but especially to children who too often innocently ingest harmful quantities of lead paint. MassBank's new program is one way that we can help local homeowners prevent such a tragedy."

The program is available to residential property owners in the Greater Lowell communities including Tewksbury and Wilmington. Interested residents should contact their nearest MassBank for Savings or call 1-800-281-4200.

Lead paint is usually found in most older homes in Massachusetts and can be removed only by certified lead-painting contractors.

Lead poisoning is caused by eating, chewing or sucking on lead painted objects such as window sills. Too much lead in the body can cause damages to brain, kidneys, nervous system and red blood cells. High levels can cause retardation, convulsion, coma and sometimes death. Low levels can slow a child's normal development and cause learning and behavioral problems.

For more information on lead paint poisoning, contact the Department of Public Health, Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Program at 1-800-532-9571.

Budget amendments to help towns, says Miceli

Representative Jim Miceli announced on Friday significant amendments inserted in the House version of the supplementary budget which will have a positive financial impact in both Tewksbury and Wilmington.

Representative Miceli said the House version of the budget carried funding which will take care of the very expensive asbestos removal costs incurred by the town of Tewksbury.

An additional bill contained a multi-million dollar appropriation which will reduce the impact on rate payers in the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority communities including the Town of Wilmington.

Representative Miceli was also responsible for inserting a $25,000 appropriation in the budget document in order to complete renovations in the Vision House building on Livingston and East Streets in Tewksbury. The Vision House Day Care Center will serve victims of traumatic head injuries.

The final version of the budget to go before both the house and Senate will also contain the long promised funding for the Heath Brook School roof and reimbursement to the town for expenses incurred when connecting the State Hospital to the Tewksbury sewer line.

Plumbing &amp; Heating by Bob Lynn • 658-2099

Finding a good plumber is easier now that Bob Lynn is back from Desert Storm. Bob is a rare kind of man. Service to others is foremost in his life. Whether serving in the deserts of Arabia or under your kitchen sink, Bob does his best to help those in need.

"I'd rather repair a part than make fast money with a replacement." "I charge the same rate, no matter what time you call, or need the work done," he says. Getting a plumber to a repair job in the evening can be very expensive unless you call Bob Lynn. Many households have both husband and wife working. A repair could be very costly at time and a half, but an evening job can be arranged at my usual low rates. Even emergencies in the middle of the night are at the same reasonable hourly rate.

Some of the jobs he typically handles are repairing or replacing (if really necessary) faucets, hot water tanks, installing gas stoves and dryers and drain cleaning. Bob stresses that the best way to get a drain unclogged is to "Call the Plumber". Those chemicals they advertise on TV will hurt your septic system and pollute the ground. A mechanical cleaning is better for your pipes, your ground water and you.

One kind of work Bob is not interested in is new construction. He is happier solving problems for homeowners. He's "The little guy's plumber." He's never "too busy" to help you.

Use this photo for $10.00 off your next plumbing job by Bob Lynn. Please, only one coupon per job!

After serving in Operation Desert Storm for a year Bob found out something about customer loyalty. Many people still called him for work and some even held off on repair work until he got back!

Bob has been a Tewksbury resident for 20 years. His plumber's license number is 23220.

Wilmington Vacuum Cleaners • Colonial Park Mall • (508) 694-9555

Jim MacDonald has his hand full with this little devil, Dirt Devil that is. Six pound of power in a little red package! Stop in and see it!

Hundreds of bags and belts and accessories decorate the walls of Jim MacDonald's new store. But he's not running a boutique, Jim sells vacuum cleaners. He carries eight different brands and knows them all well. They are the brands you know well, too: Royal, Kirby, Oreck, Eureka, Hoover, Panasonic, Sanitaire and Electrolux. With over 100 vacs in stock, you are sure to find the machine to do the kind of cleaning you need done. Six commercial models are available, too. New and used machines cover the display floor.

Repairs is where Jim shines. He can repair any make or model. If your machine is over one year old, you're not getting the cleaning you used to. It's time for a tune up! A Kenmore, Eureka or Oreck upright can be tuned for only $21.99, plus parts. Other models are more, but the most you might spend is less than $50.00. That's not much to pay to get a machine like new!

Without going to Burlington you can try the Royal Dirt Devil. Jim has it in stock! You've heard that this little hand held power house is light, but you have to hold it to know how really light it is. And only $49.99 with all the attachments included!

Parking is plentiful and easy at the Colonial Park Mall! The convenient location at the intersection of Rts 129 & 38 make it accessible to everybody. No highways, no hassle! You'll find them located in the mall next to Souper Deli.

Wilmington Vacuum Cleaners is open 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Saturday. Jim offers free layaway and commercial accounts are welcome.

Second semester for Community Schools

Due to popular demand, Wilmington Community Schools (WCS) will run a May/June semester. Most classes will start the first week of May. As predicted, the last session of classes filled very quickly. For those who attended the last registration on February 24 and the class you chose had filled, you may contact WCS Director Karen DiGiovine at 508-657-8403 if you still wish to enroll and arrangements to accommodate you will be made.

Registration for the May/June semester will be phone-in only, from Friday, April 10 through Sunday, April 12, 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

April 8 trip to Museum of Fine Arts

The Wilmington Council for the Arts has announced a bus trip to visit the superb exhibition at the Museum of Fine Arts entitled "European and American Impressionism: Crosscurrent." The show's organizers have brought together paintings categorized as Impressionist not only from France and America, but also from Norway, England, Scotland, Belgium, the Netherlands, Italy, Germany and Poland.

It is, of course, a known fact that the Museum has one of the world's preeminent collections of 19th century painting: its Monet collection is unsurpassed in all the world. In this exhibition will be seen Cassatt, Cezanne, Degas, Monet, Pissarro, Renoir and Sisley as well as Manets, Sargent, and Gauguin: Gauguin's enormous masterpiece "Where do we come from? What are we? Where are we going?" In this work Gauguin takes up the religious themes repudiated by the Impressionists. It has been pointed out by the organizers that although the National Gallery and the Louvre tried desperately to get this painting for their recent Gauguin retrospective, its fragile condition makes it impossible to loan.

"It's painted on burlap," they said, and "the paint flakes every time you move it. We held our breath while it was coming here from the Evans Wing."

A bus will leave the Art Center at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 8. It will return at approximately 10 p.m. The bus fare is $5 and because it is on a Wednesday, there is no admission fee at the museum. To reserve your ticket you may call Edith Michelson at 658-2100. Your check in the amount of $5 payable to the Wilmington Council for the Arts may be sent to her at 33 Adams St., Wilmington.

Story hour at Patten Library

The Patten Public Library will begin a six week preschool story hour program Thursday, April 16. The story hours will be held on Thursday and Friday mornings at 10 and 11. Telephone registration will begin Friday, April 10 at 10 a.m. Children must be preschoolers who are at least three years old and residents of Tewksbury.

Proof of age is required. For further information, call the library at 640-4490.

Peters' work in Lexington exhibit

Andrea Peters of Wilmington, Natalie Warshawer, and Jeanne Zephir are exhibiting new work at Depot Square Gallery. Peters small oil paintings capture nature at her emotional height and preserves that fleeting moment forever.

Warshawer's presents a new series of intimate hand colored etchings that combine a delicate but sure line with color that bring life to familiar places. Zephir has chosen monotype to create with geometric form, texture and color the beauty and imagery of the garden.

The three person show runs for March 31 to May 2, 1992, with an opening reception Sunday, April 5, 2-5 p.m. Gallery hours are Tues. through Sat., 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and by appointment.

Admission is free and open to the public. Depot Square Gallery, downstairs at 1837 Mass. Ave., Lexington, Ma. 02173; (617) 863-1597.

Wilmington senior topics*Whist Monday

The first whist of April will be held in the function room of the Senior Center Monday, April 6 beginning at 1 p.m. Don't forget to get your chance on winning one of the three $5 to be won. The chance is only 25 cents. The money derived from the chances is used toward the prizes for the game winners. If you like to play whist but have no one to play with you now, drop by and join the other seniors who also enjoy the game.

Many activities available

Now that spring has arrived, there is no reason why seniors should not get out of the house and drop by the Senior Center. A large number of programs is available to lure one away from the tv.

Thanks

We thank Joe and Ruth Filipowicz, Frank Ratto, Joe Paglia, Lillian Brown, Mary Cunningham, Tom Barrasso, Henry Latta and Louie Thereault for donating their time last Tuesday bagging and distributing the surplus commodities to young and elderly residents. It was unfortunate that we could not get an answer from the Board of Nutrition, if we were going to receive our delivery on Tuesday March 24 as we ordered. The confirmation date arrived after the column was printed. Any resident young or elderly who qualifies under any state low income program and did not receive the commodities may go to the center, there are some left.

More on Social Security

The Social Security office has informed us the new amounts for 1992 a person can earn. Under 65, one can earn up to $7,440 and receive all Social Security benefits. If you go over this amount for every $2 one will be deducted from your benefits. From 65 to 69, you can earn $10,200 and still receive all Social Security benefits. If you go over that amount for every $3 you will be deducted $1. If over 70 there is no limit to how much you can earn.

We have also been informed to remind seniors who earned more than you were allowed in 1991, you will have to complete a 1991 annual report of earnings. In 1991 the amount under 65 was $7,080, 65 to 69 it was $9,720. Over 70 no report has to be made. If you worked and did not receive an annual report through the mail in February you should contact the Social Security office in Lowell. This report must be received completed at the Social Security office by April 15, 1992. Don't confuse this report with your Income Tax report. The income tax is returned to the Internal Revenue Department and the annual earning report is returned to the Social Security office.

Social April 24

The therapeutic social for April will be held on the 24th. It will be a dinner dance at the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks Hall. A chicken dinner with all the trimmings will be served at 7 p.m. Music for dancing will be provided by the Big Band Sounds of Chet Harnden. Sign up for this social will be Friday, April 3. A $4 non refundable deposit will be required when signing up.

At that time you will be given your table number. Please do not ask to sign up for another unless that person is your spouse. Those who are working and can not get to the center when it is open 9-4:30, call the director at 658-2258. Commission members will start signing up at 9:30 a.m.

the position in August and Nobile can apply at that time. DiGiovine said she, too, will be applying for the position.

On the matter of Nobile's credentials, Fay said in some ways they weren't as important to him as Nobile's availability to work full time on the community schools. He said his main contact had been with DiGiovine, who had been at the high school on a daily basis. Fay added that his main contact with Nobile had been by phone because of her work schedule.

He praised both women for their efforts to start-up the program.

"Working together they did get a nice program off the ground.

MWRA to hold public hearings

The Mass. Water Resources Authority (MWRA) will hold two public hearings in April to seek comments and feedback from elected officials, residents, representatives of industries, and other interested parties concerning the Authority's Fiscal Year 1993 budget, including wholesale water and sewer charges.

New charges will take effect July 1, 1992. Preliminary wholesale rate announcements were released in February.

The public is invited to comment by attending one of the public hearings in Somerville or Norwood, or by submitting written comments to:

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority, Charlestown Navy Yard, 100 First Avenue, Boston, Mass. 02129, attention public affairs.

Final rates will be adopted by the MWRA Board of Directors when they adopt the final FY93 budget in June.

*Monday evening, April 6 at 7 o'clock, the authority will host a hearing at the Somerville Community Service Center (formerly the Western Junior High School), 167 Holland Street, Somerville. For more information, call Len Cawley, (617) 241-6057.

*Tuesday evening, April 7 at 7 o'clock the Authority will host a hearing at Memorial Hall, Town Hall, 566 Washington St., Norwood. For more information call Len Cawley, (617) 241-6057.

MWRA wholesale rate charges will generally account for about 60 percent of local water and sewer bills received by consumers. Local bills vary significantly on a community to community basis. They reflect MWRA charges and the costs of operating municipal waterworks and sewer systems.

A Lawrence man was arrested Wednesday afternoon after a foot chase from Main Street through the woods behind Cain's. Paulino Caraballo of Canal Street, Lawrence was arrested after Officer John Bossi caught him with a flying tackle on Dublin Street, assisted by Lt. LaRivee. Caraballo was charged by Officer Jim Hanlon with operating, never obtaining a drivers license, driving after revocation of his right to operate, giving a phoney name, driving an unregistered uninsured vehicle and attaching plates improperly to a motor vehicle. Caraballo was bailed for Thursday morning at Woburn Court where he defaulted his appearance and a warrant has been issued for his arrest.

Officer Alan Reece arrested Gary Grimes of Tilton, N.H. Thursday morning after a computer check indicated his license has been revoked.

Later on Thursday Officer Mike Begonis arrested Leonard Ricupero, 28 of Nichols Street, Wilmington while on Lowell Street. Ricupero was charged with motor vehicle offenses.

Friday evening a Lowell man was arrested on motor vehicle charges by Officers Axelrod and Desmond. The suspect was held until Saturday morning pending proper identification.

John Charles Raymond of Lowell was charged with operating without a license and using without authority. He was bailed from the Wilmington lockup Saturday and released to the Mass. Parole Board on their warrant charging him with violation of his parole on bank robbery charges. Raymond was identified with assistance of the FBI Headquarters in Washington, after his fingerprints were faxed to Washington.

Monday night Ptlm Steve LaRivee drove to Reading to arrest James P. Cotter of that town on the basis of a warrant. Cotter was held overnight to appear in Woburn Court on Tuesday.

Voters often feel that the government isn't listening to them and their views aren't being represented. When TOM SIRACUSA was elected chairman of the Wilmington Housing Authority, he listened to the voices of the tenants and began making positive changes to meet their needs.

As your voice on the Board of Selectmen, TOM SIRACUSA will respond to your concerns with honest answers on how to work with the Board to solve our problems.

the position in August and Nobile can apply at that time. DiGiovine said she, too, will be applying for the position.

On the matter of Nobile's credentials, Fay said in some ways they weren't as important to him as Nobile's availability to work full time on the community schools. He said his main contact had been with DiGiovine, who had been at the high school on a daily basis. Fay added that his main contact with Nobile had been by phone because of her work schedule.

He praised both women for their efforts to start-up the program.

"Working together they did get a nice program off the ground.

Unfortunately they had a falling out," he said.

"This has been unbelievable. It has been the most grueling experience of my life. I'm not in it for the money. I'm only pursuing this for the principle," summed up Nobile.

"I have sacrificed a great deal. She (Nobile) is making up outright lies. I'm really not that difficult to get along with," said DiGiovine.

Aldo Cairra had the last say. The chairman said he sees no reason why the whole issue won't be on Monday's agenda, as requested by Kane. He also expressed hope that the adult education program will not die.

"I hope it continues. It's too bad there's some hard feelings. (But) we did come up with something half decent," he said.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?
 by Edward H. Wilkens
PARTNERSHIP SURVIVAL
 QUESTION: I've just formed a business partnership. What provision should be made in the event one of the partners dies?
 ANSWER: When a partner dies, that's when the "death and taxes" complications begin — unless you've provided for this with business protection insurance. Provisions for heirs or other successors to come into the firm are "iffy". They may not be competent enough to keep the business going. Or the surviving partner may not have enough funds to purchase the deceased partner's interest. Business continuation insurance can cover all of these threats to a business's survival. Don't be without it.

Poisson Avril ala Shawsheen

by Bill Conlon
In a remarkable development, an American shad was caught Sunday afternoon in the Shawsheen River in Tewksbury.

The 6-pound, 4-ounce fish was caught by the Knights of Columbus on Main Street in Tewksbury, by 16-year-old Jimmy Curgwell of Billerica. He was fishing for trout at the time, and caught the silver spectacular on a common, gimme-a-break, garden worm.

Doesn't it always seem that some kid using worms can consistently outfish a guy in a $15,000 boat with another $2,000 worth of tackle?

The surprise shad was taken to the Market Basket store in the Oakdale Mall for weighing. Curgwell said he didn't know where the nearest state weighing station was, and that the supermarket scale should work fine.

Dan McGuinness at the Division of Fisheries & Wildlife said the use of a supermarket scale is acceptable in weighing state award fish, but said official weigh stations would be preferred, obviously. He said the scale was checked on Monday, to insure accuracy.

Shad are anadromous fish, which means they live in the oceans and return upstream to spawn, like the better-known salmon and herring. Thousands of shad were lifted over the Lawrence dam last spring, but all were supposedly bound for New Hampshire, to the headwaters of the Merrimack River.

The Shawsheen River is stocked with trout annually by the state's Division of Fisheries & Wildlife, but little intervention is needed for shad. The Connecticut River hosts a big Shad Fishing Derby in spring, and the current state record shad, a fish weighing over 11-pounds, was taken from the Connecticut.

Rick Barry, jefe for the Shawsheen Watershed Environmental Action Team (or S.W.E.A.T.) was quick to applaud the return of shad to the river, and said that the long-awaited return of salmon can't be too far behind.

"We've been working hard trying to clean the Shawsheen," Barry said of his group's labors, "and this may finally be the big payoff."

S.W.E.A.T. has been pulling tires and rubbish out of the Shawsheen River for years, in the hope that the stream's natural cleaning mechanism will eventually remove of the silt from the bottom, leaving clean gravel which Atlantic salmon need to spawn.

"And where there's one shad," he added, "you can bet there are plenty more behind it."

Although boney, shad make fine eating if prepared carefully. One of the favorite ways to prepare shad is to smoke them.

Curgwell said the shad clobbered his worm while the offering drifted downstream, then had to run up and down the bank to keep the fish from snapping his line. A photo of fish and angler was taken, but could not be developed in time for this week's press deadline.

Suffice to say that Curgwell was filthy after his adventure. Chasing a record shad along a riverbank can be muddy work.

If you've read this far, and in case you haven't guessed, please note the date on top of this page. Yup!

April Fool!

Incidentally, in France, where the custom of April Foolery began, the cry is not "April Fool!" when the coup-dé-grace is delivered.

The chumps over there are called April Fish. How appropriate!

This story, while phony, isn't far from the truth. Shad, and salmon, may someday return to the Shaw-sheen, if the cleanups continue and a few dams are breached. Maybe!

--- Tackle Box ---

George Yost at Tewksbury Fire Department reports (true stuff) that he took three Rainbows out of Horn Pond in Woburn over the weekend, using "Power Bait," which is a soft squeeze-around-the-hook bait that smells like rotten Play-Doh. Yost said he swears by the stuff.

Hair is the Total You

MATTERS OF STYLE

By Michelle

The latest trend in women's haircuts puts the styling back in hair styling. The cut-and-dry practicality of the wash-and-wear cut is giving way to styled waves, curls, and flips. Long, thick hair is best suited to a shoulder-length cut with soft, curling waves. This look can be maintained at home through the use of a curling iron or hot rollers in the hard-to-reach areas at the back of the head. If a short cut is desired, the switch can be made to a chin length cut with softly tousled curls. For fine hair, the look of a smooth flip may be best. Turned up ends may be held in place through the use of gel and a blow dryer. Each of these styles puts a bit more romance and glamour back into hair grooming.

Experimenting with new styles can be fun but it takes a professional to give you the right cut and style so you can look your best. Give us a call today, at SHAWSHEEN HAIR SALON, 161 Shawsheen Ave., Rt. 129, Wilmington. Hours: open six days and nights of the week, closed Sun. To help style your hair at home, try Vavoom® by Matrix® to add volume, body and shine.

Pumpkin grower 'Mr. Z' makes a killing on seeds

by Bill Conlon

And you thought Jack had trouble with his Beanstalk!

In last week's edition of the Good News ad circular, a classified advertisement appeared which offers giant pumpkin seeds for sale.

Simple? Not really.

The classified ad reads as follows: Award Winning Giant Pumpkin Seeds: Send S.A.S.E. and $2 for 1 or 3 for $5 to Mr. Z Seeds, P.O. Box 414, Tewksbury, MA, 01876.

The advertisement has upset one of Tewksbury's top giant pumpkin grower, and the ad is being checked out by the New England Pumpkin Grower's Association as well.

George Brooks of Tewksbury is a professional pumpkin grower. His 617-pound whopper won first place last year at the Topsfield Fair, and he is particular about his seeds.

Most of his giant pumpkin seeds, he said, are given away to others in the monster gourd game, and some are distributed among members of the World Pumpkin Confederation and the NEPGA. Brooks said he learned about the ad when people asked him how the sale of his seeds was going.

But Brooks is not "Mr. Z" and he would like to know who is. Brooks resents the implication that the $2 seeds come from his prize-winner, and he would like to check what, if any, awards Mr. Z can produce for his pumpkin.

Brooks had a friend buy a few of the seeds by mail, in an attempt to learn who the producer was, and he said the seeds looked very small and possibly immature. If the seeds did come from a true giant pumpkin, he said, the squash likely weighed less than 200 pounds. A pumpkin that "small" isn't even worth entering in a legitimate giant pumpkin contest.

Hugh Wiberg, director of New England Pumpkin Grower's Association, is also wondering just who Mr. Z really is.

"I'd be surprised if (the seeds) sprouted at all," Wiberg said. As for being Atlantic Giant pumpkin seeds, he said, only the garden can tell. Brooks observed that Atlantic Giant is a patented strain of giant pumpkin, and cannot be sold under the "Atlantic Giant" name without permission. The mail-order seeds do not say Atlantic Giant, he noted.

Included with the seeds, Wiberg said, was an instruction sheet with some obvious errors.

For example, Wiberg said, there is a warning to watch out for squash vine borers, a pumpkin pest. But the instruction sheet states that the adult form of the squash vine borer is a small, white butterfly, which is untrue, Wiberg stated. Those white butterflies fluttering over a pumpkin patch are the adult form of the cabbage worm, he said, while the squash vine borer becomes a clear-winged, wasp-shaped adult. There were other flaws in the instructions as well, Wiberg stated.

Wiberg, who writes a gardening column for the Town Crier during the growing season, is well known in New England for growing giant pumpkins.

Brooks added that the instruction sheet has no reference at all to any awards won by "Mr. Z" and that the instructions are fully of typographical errors. The only references to "award winning" come from the ad in Good News, he said, noting that the instructions contained no home address for the so-called expert in giant pumpkins, only the post office box in Tewksbury.

A copy of the Good News ad has been requested by John Burns, an inspector with the U.S. Postal Service's mail fraud division.

Brooks stressed that his Topsfield Fair winner did not produce the seeds being sold by "Mr. Z" in the Good News ad.

Minutemen plan Liberty Pole weekend May 30-31

Watch out, the Redcoats are coming to Wilmington!

The annual Liberty Pole Capping and encampment, hosted by the Wilmington Company of Minutemen, will be held this year on May 30-31 at Liberty Pole Park by the local police station. The public will again be treated to hawk and knife throwing contests, musket and pistol demonstrations, and colonial games for the children. The first ever Ben Franklin kite flying contest will be sponsored by Realty World. Other historical events will run throughout the weekend.

Historical balladeer Jim Douglas will perform at a concert featuring 18th century music on Saturday evening. The concert will take place in the Congregational Church on Middlesex Avenue. Also in the planning stage for Saturday are an all-you-can-eat Italian Food Festival. The price of both the concert and meal are five dollars each. Money raised through the concert will go to the Kiwanis Club's children's program.

Over 30 children from the Lorraine Spada School of Dance will perform on Saturday. Following the concert, lanterns will be hung in a Liberty Tree. There is always the possibility of meeting George and Martha Washington or being on hand when arrests are made by British troops.

The traditional parade from Wilmington Common to Liberty Pole Park will take place on Sunday at 2 p.m. The march will be followed by the Liberty Pole capping ceremony and the inevitable confrontation with His Majesty's finest.

For more information, residents may contact Minuteman Captain Jim Murray (617-923-1882), Stu Neilson (658-2346), or Dick Fudge (658-2597).

A Christian minister in Israel

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

"There were a number of young men in that barber shop and I was frankly a little relieved that the one cutting my hair didn't speak English," says the Reverend Robert K. Sweet, Jr. of Reading's Old South United Methodist Church.

When he and wife Betty traveled to Israel recently, they did some digging, drying off, hitchhiking, contemplating - and a fair amount of "kibbutzing."

But one of Rev. Sweet's biggest moments of revelation came during a haircut.

"I got a haircut in an Arab barber shop," he says, "and I've made the decision that in every country I visit from now on, I'm going to get a haircut - because a barber shop is such a social center."

"They wanted to know what I thought of U.S. policy in the Persian Gulf - and they let me know what they thought of it."

"Saddam Hussein is their hero and they think he's going to rise again. He's their hero because he's the only one in the Middle East standing up against the United States. They wanted to know what I thought about U.S. support for Israel and were really emphatic about their views and the oppression they experience," he continues.

"But before I left, they wanted to make sure I understood that their questions were not personal, and it was very clear to me that they were separating the American people from governmental policies."

"They don't understand why the American people are not 1) better informed, and 2) doing anything about what's going on."

Rev. Sweet spent a month touring and studying the Holy Land as the recipient of the Southern New England Conference of the United Methodist Church Stowell Scholarship. The scholarship is provided by a bequest left years ago by a lay person who thought it important that every pastor experience Israel.

Betty accompanied him for two-and-a-half weeks as part of some in-depth research into one of her lifelong interests, family life. "I wanted to get onto a kibbutz," she says, "because that would be the ultimate in an intentional extended family."

They speak of contrasts everywhere: old, new, traditional, modern, rich, poor. They tell of business suits and robes; camels and Mercedes; mud and desert; aqueducts and "mass" transit; altars and tear gas canisters; land as barren as the badlands of South Dakota, greenery lush with forests and fruit trees; street vendors, diamond factories and malls; new construction and old bullet holes; funeral processions and day care centers; a 500-member kibbutz with 18 cars; an awesome multimedia show - 2700 slides depicting the history of Israel, in 36 minutes, in Tiberias; awe-inspiring Bar Mitzvahs at the Wailing Wall, complete with video cameras.

They speak of surprises, politics and prospects for peace.

"We went to a secular Jewish kibbutz, not a religious Jewish kibbutz," says Rev. Sweet. "That was a new learning for us when we learned about secular Jews and religious Jews."

"That was my biggest learning in the whole trip," says Betty. "I had in my head the idea that people who were moving... and were so driven to establish Israel were doing it out of religious choice."

"It's not Zionism - it's culture and that was my biggest discovery."

"My question around that is if Reform Judaism were acceptable in Israel, would many of those 'secular' Jews become Reform Jews?" asks Rev. Sweet. "They're not non-believing Jews. They simply are not Orthodox Jews. And they feel oppressed by Orthodox Judaism's hold on the government."

"As Orthodoxy is incorporated into the government, there is anger from secular Jews that they can't get on a bus on Shabbat. It's not unlike the Blue Laws here used to be, except it's far more stringent than they ever were."

"We picked that up in a number of places," says Betty, "people who expressed discontent with their faith as it is held in Israel."

"Another whole learning for me is that the government of Israel is in the hands of a small majority - can you have a small majority? - but it's that coalition. Their democracy is a coalition of small groups rather than the majority rules."

"And the necessity of coalition governments," adds Rev. Sweet, "gives, in the current situation, the right wing parties disproportionate power."

"Part of our trip was study and part was pilgrimage," he continues. "I figure we can do lectures on three things: the holy sites of Israel, retracing the steps of Jesus, on the one hand; an archeological lecture, on the other - I've got more pictures on archeology that I'll never identify; and our impressions of contemporary Israel."

The Sweets landed in Israel, and the rains came - more this winter than in the last 100 years.

"We set out to spend a week in an archeological dig at Bet Shean which is a city that has been built and destroyed 25 times over the last 4,000 years," says Rev. Sweet. "Unfortunately, due to the rainy weather, we only got to stay four hours instead of five days."

Flea Market in Wakefield

Spring is the time of renewal and cleaning, and the Mizpah Wheel group at the Greenwood Union Church is helping the community by offering to host a Flea Market on April 4, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

"Since we put so much emphasis on recycling papers, cans and glass, it is felt that equal emphasis should be placed on such items which still have use and value rather than simply throwing them out in the trash. Especially during these times of financial depression, it certainly makes sense (and cents) to take stock of all the items which are no longer important around your home, but certainly would be a welcomed change and useful to someone else.

Persons will be able to set-up their wares the night before, from 7 to 9 p.m., or from 8 a.m., before the start of the Flea Market.

Snacks, luncheon and beverages will be available. In order to reserve a table, please call Nancy Trimmer (245-8562) or the Greenwood Union Church office (245-0321), at the corner of Oak and Main streets, Wakefield, near Melrose.

There are seven differences in the second picture. Can you spot them?

A minister in Israel

from S-1

From S-1
"We were in and out of the dig a number of times but it was just too muddy for them to dig," says Betty. "That whole town is sitting on the ruins of history and where they're excavating for a new building they get down and discover artifacts so, all over town, which is a relatively young town, you see fences and holes."

"Eventually, Bet Shean, when it is all completed, will be bigger than the Old City of Jerusalem."

The Sweets spent a lot of time in Jerusalem because of the rains and washed out roads. They witnessed the weekly demonstration of the Women in Black, "mostly Jewish women who demonstrate Fridays at noon to stop the occupation of the territories." They spoke with many Jews and Moslems, spent time in a kibbutz beyond the city and a Palestinian refugee camp within it.

"A doctor took us into a refugee camp in Jerusalem," says Betty. "I saw a 12-year-old who had been in prison for a year for throwing stones. There is nothing for the kids to do in there. So they throw stones over fences, which is not correct, but that is what junior high age kids are going to do if there isn't something constructive for them to do."

"There's also the potential it was encouraged by some adults," says Rev. Sweet.

"The flip side of that for me," says Betty, "is the compulsive military service for the Israelis means you have 18- to 22-year-olds with automatic weapons, and I think it's a wonder there aren't more incidents because those kids are, at that age, impulsive. So incidents occur with their being bored and taking pot shots at water towers, and these get blown out of proportion because they're 19-year-olds doing 19-year-old things."

"And incidents occur because 13-year-olds are doing 13-year-old things - neither of which is correct."

"My fear, as with racism here some years back, is that I saw very little going on of those kids learning to live with other people," she continues.

"I wish we could have read the graffiti on all the buildings in the Old City."

"The thing for me," says Rev. Sweet, "is there's nobody clean and the extremists on both sides, I'm convinced, are the root of the problem. We picked that up everywhere. There are Palestinians and Hebrews who would love to somehow resolve the issues and would make concessions."

He did, however, discover "one bright spot" in the refugee camp and has already begun to brighten it even more: "The youth center was poorly equipped, just a large room with a couple of ping pong tables," he says, "but in that youth center, there is a poorly equipped Boy Scout troop and our troop here at the Old South Church has some interest in establishing a relationship with them - which I find kind of exciting."

"They're going to start off by writing some letters to them talking about what they've done, and then maybe find ways to try to provide them with resources."

All politics aside, although Sweet doesn't relish the thought of a commercial baptism in the muddy Jordan River, the memories of the myriad museums and historical sites throughout Israel put him into seventh heaven.

Take the valley where David and Goliath "had their little sling-shot fight."

"I brought back several pieces of pottery from the Philistine campsite," he says. "That's what I can't get my head around: something that happened between 1500 and 2000 years before Christ, 3500 to 4000 years ago, the pottery from the campsite is still on the ground. That blows my mind."

As does the whole combination of archeology, history, and religion experienced from the perspectives of past and present cultures through the eyes of tourist and minister, coming together for him in a visit to what was thought for years to have been Solomon's stable.

"The basic textbook for archeologists over there is the Bible," he says, "but new evidence is always changing earlier presuppositions."

"To me, the thing that is fascinating is that in our society so much of the time, we're thinking scientifically, and everything we do is based on certain scientific assumptions we just don't question."

"As archeologists, we went out every day expecting our assumptions to be upset by a new discovery - and that was just fun."

About the Towns

from S-3

new sign could be in place already, thanks to the Stonham Board of Appeals unanimous vote in favor of it, with modifications.

The design in question was changed slightly - the sign shortened a bit to 21 feet, the words "shopping center" removed, and the columns downlighted. The motif matches Redstone's proposed new facade.

If this is already old news, please accept it as a highly unusual sign of the Times.

SENIOR CENTER - Reading Elder Services is looking for volunteers experienced in photography, graphic design and layout to assemble a pictorial history of senior activities.

Such a "scrapbook" will be exhibited in May at the reception for volunteers and at the new Senior Center's open house at the end of the year. Architect John Catlin and Associates of Boston will transform Reading's former fire station into the new center - preliminary designs are already being shared with the center's advisory committee.

If the "editorial" position above is already filled, Elder Services Director Lois Bond will undoubtedly discover another creative outlet for you.

From S-5 MUSEUM OFFERS WEAVING CLASSES

The Museum of American Textile History will offer children's weaving classes from 9:30 a.m. to noon on Tuesday, April 21, and Wednesday, April 22.

Mary Ellen Nochimow, an experienced weaving teacher, and a graduate of Southeastern Massachusetts University with a BFA in textile design will conduct the two sessions. Mary Ellen specializes in rag weaving, basketry and fabric design. Mary Ellen will present her portfolio to the participants and talk about printed and woven textiles. She will demonstrate rag weaving, tapestry and inkle loom weaving as well as a Japanese weaving technique. Participants will choose one or more of these techniques for their own projects.

Children will be encouraged to express their own individual creativity through the use of color, texture, and pattern. They will take home their woven bracelets, pouches, rag placemats, wall hangings, or small shawls made during each day of classes.

Classes are $10 per session, and are open to boys and girls ages 7 through 12. ANTHONY MANCONI

George Washington never told a lie. That's probably true because he never played golf. George never went fishing so he never could tell about the "Big One" that got away and he never had to file an income tax return either...I believe that George Washington did throw a silver dollar across the Potomac River because a dollar went further in those days.

Nancy McCarthy said to her mother, "Brian wants to marry me but I just found out that he doesn't believe in hell." "Marry him anyway," her mother told Nancy. "Your father and I will convince him that there is a hell."...Don't be surprised if you see an off duty policeman working part-time in a bakery. They are experts at making "cop-cakes.... If you are going to run to get an aspirin, I'll wait until you get back.

Paul Simon said to me, "Chipper, I heard that Kathy gave up playing golf and took up bowling. How is she doing?" "Well, Paul," I replied, "she is doing a lot better than her golf game. She hasn't lost a ball yet!"...It used to be, "Only in Hollywood" but it's even in my town - a tired housewife says to her husband coming home from work, "Your children and my children have been fighting with our children."

Lee DeBell asked me, "Chipper, what do you think of Buddha?" "I don't like it," I replied, "I'm an Oleomargarine man myself."...Would you believe that my Uncle John Shea at age 85 never had any use for glasses? He drank straight from the bottle!

Some of the tv weather forecasters are sometimes very confusing to me. They show us maps, charts, highs and lows and don't keep it plain and simple. I remember good old E.B. Rideout who, in about two sentences, told you straight away, "It's going to rain, or snow or be fair." He would get a laugh from many listeners when he ended his forecast with, "The Hum-a-dig-a-ty is 50%." Folks, that's humidity of course.

My family and I love to listen to Paul Harvey for the same reason - plain and simple and no "machine gun" discourse either...My advice to young men -- If your girlfriends consider you like just another "pebble" on the beach, try being a little "boulder"!...Dean Martin said that he wouldn't mind going on the wagon, if there was a bar on it!

Camp Fire

Camp Fire has 82nd birthday

During the month of March, Camp Fire girls and boys in Reading and Wakefield joined other across the nation in celebrating Camp Fire's 82nd Birthday. The celebration will continue throughout the year.

Kicking off the month-long celebration was a Fitness First Day for Camp Fire members at the Reading Gymnastics Academy. Members were encouraged to bring a friend who might like to learn more about Reading/Wakefield Camp Fire, the largest club in the Greater Boston circuit.

The theme of this year's birthday observance was "A Better World Begins With Me." This theme is central to Camp Fire's commitment to service, nature and a healthy environment. Projects in which the local Camp Fire clubs are involved include: the importance of bats in our environments; school yard litter pick-ups; cooking with fresh fruits; sewing comfort quilts for shelters; and the 2nd annual Day to Care.

Camp Fire teaches girls and boys decision making skills, self-reliance and good citizenship. By focusing on the environment and what Camp Fire youth can do to help preserve it, children learn the importance of group efforts to solve problems.

Camp Fire teaches girls and boys decision making skills, self-reliance and good citizenship. By focusing on the environment and what Camp Fire youth can do to help preserve it, children learn the importance of group efforts to solve problems.

In today's Camp Fire, the choices and opportunities are wide open for boys and girls. Through Camp Fire, young people learn to develop confidence and gain skills needed to become tomorrow's leaders.

Garden Art in North Reading

Think Spring! Turn your garden into a work of art, this year!

With its current colorful display of garden art, the Flint Memorial Library in North Reading is offering a great choice of ideas and helpful suggestions.

Through this weekend, the library's main floor has been transformed into a mini-garden show. A variety of garden-settings and wall-displays shows some of the many ways in which stone and gravel, light and water can be combined with plants and flowers, to create enjoyable garden environments. Ilse Schenk of North Reading has joined forces with the landscaping team of Tim Scanlan and Bill Gaipo to create these displays, which include a natural stone wall, a brick patio and trellis. Focal pieces of the displays are Ms. Schenk's sculptural work: Two ceramic fountains, hanging earthenware planters, a number of stoneware garden lanterns and wall-sculptures.

On Thursday evening, March 19, Ms. Schenk showed slides of garden art, to illustrate her talk entitled "Plants, Light and Water: Garden Art around the World" in the library's Community Room. While travelling around the world with her husband, Ms. Schenk has visited and photographed a great variety of garden settings in the U.S., Europe and the Far East. The presentation took attendees on a tour of exceptional garden environments.

Ms. Schenk has worked in many areas of sculpture, graphics and design. She has done sculpture in wood, stone, metal, stoneware and acrylics, with her current favorite being ceramic clay and garden art. She has studied fine arts in Paris, industrial design, photography and graphics at Pratt Institute in New York, multi-media presentations and art-education at Boston University, and sculpture at the Brooklyn Museum School and the University of Massachusetts.

The team of T.J. Scanlan Landscaping Co. of Billerica designed and built all the garden settings. The plants and flowers have been donated by Eric's Greenhouses and Garden Center of Reading, and Pinewood Gardens of North Reading.

Reading Art Association Members Exhibit and Sale

Spring is around the corner and to lift up spirits, the Reading Art Association is busily planning their Annual Members Exhibit and Sale, which will be held at the First Congregational Church, 40 Sanborn St., Reading. There is no admission fee and the public is invited to attend. The event will be held Friday, April 3, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and Saturday, April 4, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

This exhibit will allow the public to view some exceptional and exciting works of art created by local artists. The sale in conjunction with this exhibit promises to provide some excellent values in original art. All paintings submitted for the Mini Art Sale will be priced under $100. Additional information can be obtained from George Rainville at (617) 944-7573.

Anthony Giglio, Dan and Sharon Hurley, Susan Biecher, Richard Tosto, Harvey Alto and Chicky Murphy, all of Medford; Al and Lu Serino, Janet Tenaglia and Neil and Nancy Collins, all of Melrose; Metro Capt. Joseph Carli (retired), State Police Sgt. Jim Sartori (retired) and Metro Police Lt. William McKay, all of Saugus.

There was a power breakdown at the high school lunchroom. The electric stoves and ovens, microwave units and hot plates were useless. The students were fed, however, peanut butter and jelly sandwiches. Ryan Powers told his mother, Louise what happened then added, "We finally got a real home cooked meal for a change!"

Metro Officer Julie Wahlefield stopped my Aunt Nora for speeding. "But, officer," my Aunt Nora said, "the sign said 66." "That is the route number ma'am," Julie explained. "Oh dear!" Aunt Nora replied, "It's a good thing you didn't see me driving on Rte. 93!"

Boston Beanstalks Tall Club Weekend April 3 through 5

The Boston Beanstalks Tall Club, a social club for men (6'2"+) and women (5'10"+) is sponsoring its sixth annual Tall Clubs International Boston Weekend from Friday, April 3 through Sunday, April 5. The festivities will be held at the 57 Park Plaza Hotel in downtown Boston.

Highlights of the weekend include a reception party together Friday night which will introduce out of town attendees to Beanstalk members and guests.

It isn't true that all in the corporate business world are cold to the needs of the poor. According to James Hill of the Chicago Tribune, "The Great Lakes Naval Training Center finds the tutors and Walgreens pays for school supplies and a breakfast for each child who is at risk of being held back in his or her present school grade." The message here is - a great corporation in conjunction with the US Naval personnel are giving these kids a chance to succeed. Woodchips salutes Jim Ward, District Manager and all associated with this great project. "No one stands so tall as when he or she bends down to help a child."

Folks, silence is the best answer to an irritating question...If you recognize any of the following expressions, then you may be as old as I - "It's a lead pipe cinch," "Cute as a button," "She was as pure as the driven snow but oh! how she drifted," and "Tippy canoe and Tyler too." Hey wait a minute, I'm not that old but I do remember seeing General Custer wearing an 'arrow shirt'...Most women would rather have beauty than brains because most men can 'see' better than they can 'think'.

Dreamboat is Julie Wahlefield. Super Star is Mary Boire, R.N.

Throughout the weekend the TCI Woman of the year, along with members from tall clubs near and far, will join many of the 250 members of the Boston Beanstalks Tall Club in fund raising activities to combat Marfan's Disease, which disproportionately affects tall people.

For reservations and further information about this exciting, fun-filled weekend please call Louise Green at (508) 435-9767.

Devlin medical scholarship applications now available

With the end of the school year approaching, the Trustees of the Devlin Medical Scholarship Fund remind local students accepted or enrolled at accredited medical or nursing schools, that applications for scholarship assistance are available. Students in pre-med programs or other health-related fields are not eligible.

In recent years scholarships have been awarded to between five and ten candidates annually in amounts ranging from $100 to $1,800. Last year $6,050 in scholarship aid was awarded to four medical and five nursing students from Melrose, North Reading, Reading, Stoneham and Winchester.

The only stipulation is that the families of the applicants must reside in Stoneham, Melrose, North Reading, Reading, Wakefield, Wilmington, Winchester or Woburn. Candidates are judged on the basis of scholastic standing, personal character, and financial need. The deadline for applying is June 1st. Awards will be presented at a banquet in July.

The degree of financial assistance varies from year to year, depending on the generosity of contributors who make donations in the form of memorial gifts, general donations or bequests.

To obtain an application or make a donation, please contact Mrs. Jo Devlin, 34 Pleasant St., Stoneham, MA 02180, (617) 438-7828.

ONLY YOU CAN PREVENT FIRE

More residential fires occur at night while families sleep than at any other time. Please take a minute to review these tips from the Sleep Products Safety Council and get a good night's sleep.

- Don't smoke in bed.
- Throw away any mattresses made before the 1973 Federal Mattress Flammability Standard—it requires resistance to cigarette ignition.
- Install and maintain smoke detectors in your home.
- Create a family fire-escape plan.

Workshop on vernal pools

The Massachusetts Audubon Society's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary in Topsfield is offering a workshop on vernal pools on Saturday, April 4, from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Vernal, or temporary, pools are vital breeding areas for a variety of species of salamanders, frogs, insects and microscopic organisms.

Explore the vernal pools of the sanctuary and learn firsthand the life cycles of the animals that inhabit these endangered areas.

This program is appropriate for conservation commissioners, community activities, and anyone interested in vernal pools. Participants should dress for the weather and wear boots. Pre-registration is required. Fee: $12 ($8/Massachusetts Audubon members). For more information, call the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary at (508) 887-9264.

Massachusetts has fun summer ideas

The Massachusetts Summer Calendar of Events is now available free from the Massachusetts Office of Travel and Tourism.

The 1992 April through September 15 calendar lists more than 300 fairs, festivals and celebrations in the cities, coastal towns and country villages of Massachusetts. Top events include Sail Boston which celebrates the 500th anniversary of the discovery of America by bringing 187 Tall Ships into Boston harbor; the

A.C.C. CraftFair in West Springfield, the largest craft fair in America; and the music, theatre and dance performances in the Berkshires. There are also seafood and harvest festivals, water excursions and nature tours.

The calendar includes a Whale Watch Guide that lists 17 whale watch cruises from Cape Ann, north of Boston to Plymouth County and Cape Cod.

The cover illustration is one in a series of images using Massachusetts artists. The hand-colored photograph of the Tall Ship was done by Robert Arruda.
